Young King Almost Un-

His ancestors fought with guns and daggers for the right to rule. His family has suffered more assassinations than any other ruling clan.
His palace has often run with blood.

But King Peter II, of Yugoslavia, asserted himself
today in the time-honored tradition of the Karageorgievich clan. At 17 years of age, he seized power from his ministers and from his uncle, placed himself on the throne and launched Yugoslavia on the first act of a new drama whose climax cannot be predicted.

The boy king's sudden emergence into the spotlight of troubled Europe was in keeping with the theatrical traditions of the Karageorgievich dynasty.

Kept In Background
For the past seven years, since his father King Alexander was murdered by a madman at Marseille, Peter has been kept in the background. He has made no public appearances, no public commitments. He has been trained for kingship in the strong, silent, rough and ready methods of his ancestors while his Oxford-educated uncle, Prince Paul, ruled the land as regent.

In all these years King Peter has appeared in public only half a dozen times. Few Yugoslavians even knew what he looked like until his cheering supporters marched through the streets of Belgrade with photographs and banners today.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Information from city hall that the sidewalk construction program is to be continued during the present winter will be appreciated by citizens in some localities. There are still numerous walks that are in need of rebuilding.

Only a few days more now and
April 1 will be in our midst.

Saturday is moving day for radio stations of the nation. Most all stations will be found at a new point on the dial on Saturday. The changes are not very great, however, and most stations will be on wave lengths only a little removed from the present location on the dial.

Some of the baseball diamonds around the county have already dried out enough to allow their use. Frost did not appear to have gone into the ground to a very great depth during the past winter.

Most all trace of the snow fences that lined miles of highway in the county during the winter have been removed and placed in storage to await the hour of need next fall.

The unionists were charged with which conducted the strike that made 1,300 workers idle, and Robert

Many of the union men arrested wore bloody bandages and some showed the results of blows and scratches. They were marched from union headquarters between a double row of state officers and placed in state police cars.

At Request Of Mayor.
Capt. Walter Eckert, who headed the state police detachment, said that the request for state officers had been made to Gov. Henry F.

Governor James Asks Action By Secretary Perkins

Seeks Government Action In Settlement Of Strike Trouble
At Bethlehem

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, March 27.—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins was implored by Gov. Arthur H.
James today to act at once to end the Bethlehem steel strike.

He admitted that the state was powerless to intervene.
Acknowledging receipt of a telegram from Clarence A. Dykstra, chairman of the National Defense Mediation Board, advising that the board could not act until the case was certified to it by Madame Perkins, Governor James said:

"Secretary of Labor Perkins should take immediate steps to settle the strike. We have absolutely no authority to interfere."
The chief executive disclosed, however, he has made no formal request to Secretary Perkins to intervene in the Bethlehem dispute. He conferred frequently with Motor Police Commissioner Lynn G. Adams and State Secretary of Labor and Industry Lewis G. Hines.

Colonel Adams on his return from the strike scene was closeted with the governor for more than an hour and expressed satisfaction with the way State police were handling the

May Reach Agreement In Bethlehem Strike

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 27.—It appeared likely today that terms for a back-to-work movement of Bethlehem steel strikers will be reached before tonight.

Company and S.W.O.C. officials scheduled a conference to thrash out five points submitted by the union for terminating the strike which began Monday afternoon and the many factors entering into the situation at the moment made it appear more than likely that some basis for quick resumption of production of defense materials would be reached.

The most important factor is that the union and the management have stalemated on the effect of the strike. S.W.O.C. has not been able to pull out enough workers to close the plant entirely and the management has not been able to retain enough to operate it satisfactorily.

Strikers themselves admit privately that they have not pulled out as many as they hoped they would.
One picket at the main gate said his department was operating almost at top efficiency with only ten men off the job. Others tell similar stories.

John Riffe, S.W.O.C. field director, who will head the union delegation in the conference, said he expected that it would not be in the nature of an exploratory meeting but a "brass tacks" discussion of terms for the immediate ending of the strike.

The injured woman was Mrs.

Bricks crashed through the win-

To Crack Down On Defense Strikes

Knudsen Orders Strike To Halt

Delivers Ultimatum To Strike-Bound Allis-Chalmers Plant In Milwaukee

MOVING CLOSER TO GOVERNMENT SEIZURE

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Moving closer to actual government seizure of the strike-bound Allis-Chalmers plant in Milwaukee, OPM Director William S. Knudsen today gave both management and labor an ultimatum that extraordinary means would be invoked to crack down on national defense strikes.

In his unusual move, Knudsen gave a virtual no-strike edict without waiting for President Roosevelt's new 11-man national mediation board to get into motion. The OPM chief's action may set the precedent for dealing with the long-riding strike of the CIO at the Bethlehem steel plant at Bethlehem, Pa., should a peace parley today fail to end the dispute.

Must Be Reopened.
Together with Secretary of Navy Frank Knox, Knudsen wired Allis-Chalmers officials and the CIO union which called the strike, that the plant must be reopened immediately and that all workers get back on the job. The 10-week-old dispute, tying up $45,000,000 in defense orders and delaying completion of 25 navy destroyers, can be settled later by arbitration, Knox and Knudsen said.

Knudsen, acting alone, then wired CIO and company officials at the strike-bound Vanadium Corporation plant at Bridgeville, Pa., that all available vanadium there must be moved out of the plant to steel companies immediately despite any picket lines. He said that company and union officials agreed to cooperate. Vanadium is needed for armor plate manufacture.

In the Allis-Chalmers case, Knudsen and Knox warned:
"We can no longer wait for settlement of the strike by ordinary means. We must ask you to notify your entire force to report for work and start operations immediately—negotiations can be continued while all men are at work."

Both then wired Harold Christoffel, CIO strike leader at Milwaukee that "we expect your full cooperation."

The telegrams did not state what steps would be taken if the company or union failed to heed the ultimatum. However, it was pointed out that the draft industry section of the conscription act could be invoked to allow the government to seize and operate the plant.

The famous London Kit-Cat club was founded about 1703 for the encouragement of art and literature. It took its name from the meeting place, the tavern of Christopher Cat, near Temple Bar.

The ashes of burnt paper money can be identified and redeemed.

BOY KING'S ACT LIKE TRADITIONS OF HIS FAMILY

the leaders of the Comitadj bands who still control the destinies of Serbia, Croatia and Slovenia purposely kept their young king under cover. They trained him for a day of emergency.

That day came today.
For seven years past, Peter has been routed out of bed at 6 a. m. to begin his studies of language, diplomacy, the military arts and the even more difficult task of inspiring unity among the widely assorted population of his country. He has had to work each night until 11. And part of his curriculum was listening to every word of radio broadcast that reached Belgrade.

Pro-British Leanings

His intimates say that King Peter has always harbored pro-British leanings. He is said to remember with love and devotion the early years of his boyhood spent in London, when he rowed on the Thames and romped the lawns of Windsor Castle.

At school Peter excelled in biology and mathematics. In late years he has become interested in military strategy and profited by the fact the main barracks of Belgrade are virtually in the back yard of his royal palace. He holds an air force commission as a lieutenant.

litical matter. It has no foreign political character. The people demanded formation of a cabinet of national unity reflecting the national will."

Prince Paul, regent of troubled Yugoslavia since King Alexander was assassinated at Marseille in 1934, surrendered his powers a scant 48 hours after throwing this country into the axis camp by signing the tripartite pact.

Some reports said he had fled with his wife, the former Princess Olga of Greece, a sister of Britain's Duchess of Kent. Others said he was under arrest, along with former Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Alexander Cincar-Marcovic, who went to Vienna with pomp and panoply just two days ago to place Yugoslavia under axis domination.

King Heads Regime

King Peter placed himself at the head of a military regime and brought into his emergency cabinet Yugoslav statesmen who in the past at least have been friendly toward Britain.

The country was stunned but seemingly overjoyed by the dramatic turn of events.
King Peter had been educated in the ways of his forefathers—grounded in a rough school for eventual rule over a turbulent, headstrong, traditionally independent nation. Prince Paul, on the other hand, who never anticipated power, was a product of efete internationalism.

The young monarch issued a proclamation to his people which read in part:

"Serbs, Croats and Slovenes: At this moment, so grave in the history of our people, I have decided to take the royal powers into my own hands.
"My loyal army and navy have at once placed themselves at my disposal. Already they are carrying out my orders.
"Peter placed full military powers in the hands of General Dusan Simovic, chief of staff of the Yugoslav army, who personally during the last few years has drilled the young monarch in military arts.
"Then he asked for public support—an appeal that met with an overwhelming reception.

Thousands In Streets

Thousands of persons gathered in the streets around the royal palace and the residence of the Yugoslav patriarch, an orthodox monk who only yesterday volunteered personally to lead a rebellion against capitulation to the axis.

The patriarch issued a manifesto which said:
"At this decisive moment, the bright star of the dynasty of King Peter II has appeared to safeguard the honor and the glory of our people."
"Serbs! Rally around the king. Your church is with you."

The first act of Simovic's new government was to declare King Peter officially of age. Then, the military regime announced plans for a national plebiscite to determine whether Prince Paul's adhesion to the tripartite pact should be legalized or canceled.

Thus far, public opinion, particularly in Serbia, has been overwhelmingly opposed to the alliance.

Impromptu Parades

As royal manifesto and church proclamation reached the people of Belgrade and other cities in their homes, kafanes and restaurants, multitudes poured into the streets. Impromptu parades were staged, martial songs were sung and all the ebullience inherent in the Serbian soul was given full rein.

One after another, Yugoslav national organizations proclaimed their loyalty to King Peter.
"The national militia announced its determination to stand by the young monarch, whatever his decisions.

The reserve officers corps sent a petition of allegiance to the king at his white palace on the hill.

The internationally famous Sokol youth organization went with him. At the same time, Simovic appealed to independent representatives of all political parties to stand by the king. Vladimir Macek, leader of the Croatian minority who bitterly fought Cvetkovic on the axis pact, was one of the first to volunteer. He was rewarded with the post of vice premier.

Pro-British Partisan

Monello Nincic, long known as a pro-British partisan, was named minister of foreign affairs. He held a similar post in another cabinet 10 years ago.

A number of other ministers who resigned from the cabinet last week in protest against the axis signing were reinstated to office. The well-known pro-British jurist Slobodan Yovanovic, who brought heavy pressure to bear upon Prince Paul to resist Germany, was named second vice premier.

General Stefanovic, military governor of Belgrade, issued an appeal to the people to unite and stand behind the army "which is ready to defend the independence and sovereignty of the country."

All mobilized troops immediately swore an oath of allegiance to the king and the new minister of war, General Ditch.

The mayor then appealed to the populace to remain calm and adjured every worker to remain at his post. Schools and restaurants were closed in the late afternoon and all railway traffic to points beyond the borders suppressed.

Cabinet Resigns

All members of the cabinet headed by Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic resigned as the nation rocked to mounting opposition and rioting against Yugoslav adherence to the Axis-Japanese alliance.

Prince Paul, who has served as Yugoslav regent, joined the cabinet ministers in quitting his post.

As a result, control of Yugoslavia was handed over to the young king, who under ordinary circumstances would have mounted the throne on his 18th birthday next September.

As his first official act after assuming the burdens of state, the youthful king informed the nation of the change in a radio message early this morning.

He explained:
"This is the only way to maintain public order in this exceedingly serious moment."

"I appoint Gen. Dusan Simovic, commander of the Fourth Army Corps, as premier of Yugoslavia."

It was understood the Simovic government will have a 100 per cent military character.
Amid the first shock of the sensational change, which may have sweeping internal and international repercussions—perhaps even vitally affecting the European war—it was not at once apparent whether King Peter would continue the foreign policy pursued by Regent Prince Paul.

There was even doubt in informed Belgrade circles as to whether the new regime would respect the Yugoslavian adhesion to the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo alliance signed by Cvetkovic and former Foreign Minister Alexander Cincar-Marcovic at Vienna.

of the lease-lend act, President Roosevelt is enabled, in the interests of American national defense, to render effective material assistance to nations which are seeking to protect their independence and integrity against aggression.

Move Welcomed

Welles said Lane also was instructed to inform the Yugoslav government that the information which has been received concerning young King Peter's action has been widely welcomed in the United States as a matter of self-congratulation to every liberty loving man and woman.

Welles also was understood to have similarly assured the Yugoslavian minister, Constantine Fitch, at a conference this morning that the United States government will do everything it possibly can under existing legislation to get supplies to Yugoslavia if that country is compelled to resist a German attack.

CHURCHILL DECLARES YUGOSLAV NATION "HAS FOUND ITS SOUL"

and freedom of their country (by entering the Axis-Japanese alliance) are reported under arrest.
"This patriotic movement arises from the wrath of a valiant and warlike race who had their country betrayed by weakness of their rulers and by the foul intrigues of the axis powers.
"We may therefore cherish the hope—I speak of course only on information that has reached me—that a Yugoslav government will be formed worthy to defend the freedom and integrity of its country.
"Such a government in its brave endeavor will receive from the British empire, and I doubt not in its own way from the United States, all possible aid and succor.
"The British empire and its allies will make common cause with the Yugoslav nation.
"We will continue to march together and strive together until complete victory is won."

Churchill gave his listeners encouragement regarding the great "battle of the Atlantic" in which so many British merchant ships have been lost. He said:
"I cannot doubt that before many months have passed I shall be able to declare it decisively won."

According to unimpeachable information in London, the Yugoslav coup d'etat was the first result of a Nazi threat to the Cvetkovic government, which resigned this morning that German troops would police the country if the Belgrade regime did not restore order at once.

This there was said to have been delivered informally to Cvetkovic by an attaché of the German legation at Belgrade.

By so doing, London quarters observed, the Nazis overplayed their diplomatic hand and gave strength to the anti-axis clique in Yugoslavia.

This forced the hand of the anti-Nazi coup in Belgrade sooner than had been expected, it was said.

As a result, these circles feared, the new Belgrade regime may be ill prepared to meet what is regarded as a virtual certainty within perhaps a few hours—a full-scale Nazi blitzkrieg attack against Yugoslavia.

friends, and seek to stir up trouble in other unions through devious methods.

"One of the chief objects is to see that violence and bloodshed accompanies strikes. There is every indication that the violence of the last few days in Pennsylvania and Chicago is only the beginning.

"They have organized what they call mobile squads in several large cities, numbering from 50 to 500. If a strike occurs, and they see a chance to turn an orderly strike into a riot, they rush men to the scene by automobile. It is easy to mix with a strike crowd and cause violence."

Dies said that mobile squads, highly disciplined, are maintained in Philadelphia, New York, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Los Angeles and other large cities.

"These plans for further strikes in basic defense industries and to cause violence and bloodshed will be carried out unless the president speaks out fearlessly and plainly," said Dies.

"Violence also can be minimized if leaders of labor unions will expel radicals from their ranks. Patriotic unionists, of which there are millions in this country, can help the situation by doing everything possible to see that production is not interrupted during the emergency, and depending on the government to see that they get a square deal."

"Labor has more at stake in the defeat of Hitler than any other group. I hope the patriotic unionists will demand that their leaders take positive action not only to prevent strikes but to prevent them from being turned into bad situations."

Dies said that he would press Philip Murray, CIO chief, for a definite declaration that he will "purge" unions of Communist leaders.

A fellow shouldn't expect the girls to mob him for his autograph if he looks all in, has grave-like hollows in his cheeks and neck and his clothes hang on him like a scarecrow. Constipation can do a lot toward helping one toward this condition. John Mennitto of 532-12th St., New Kensington, Pa., says: "Constipation had me in a frightful condition and resulted in a falling appetite that was making me look like a scarecrow. Since taking World's Tonic my constipation was amazingly relieved and both appetite and weight are now coming back. Some people eat big meals and even drink lots of milk but just cannot seem to gain weight. Often an alkaline balance is needed for proper food assimilation. World's Tonic contains valuable alkalines for neutralizing acids and is not an old-fashioned nasty tasting medicine. The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

CHANGE IN SCHOOLS A HANDICAP

We little realize how many children, because their families move, change from one school to another during a term. The family moves from country to city, city to country, city to city, or from one place to another in the same city. Some elementary school principals in various places in the United States have told me that from a tenth to a half of their children at the end of a term were not in their school at the beginning of the term. This obviously is a hard problem for the principal, teacher and parent; and much harder still for the child. For the child coming from one school to another, the same grade may be harder or easier than the one he came from and the methods of work very different. If the work is much more advanced he may be greatly handicapped. If, moreover, it seems wise to the principal to place the child in a lower grade than the one the child was in, the child and his parents may feel discouraged. Yet it may be the wise thing to do.

Making Friends Difficult
Among the children the new child is a stranger and may have a hard time making friends. This strange experience may inspire new fears in him causing him to seem queer to other children. They may tease him and make him even more frightened.

Often a still harder problem for the school child whose parents have moved is to learn to feel happy and win friends among the other children of the neighborhood, especially if these children are under high school age. But when these children do adapt themselves to the new environment their gain in personality and general education may be very great, indeed.

At any rate, wise parents give these matters their careful attention and strive to be skillful in helping the child in the new community to adapt himself as easily and happily as possible.

Over-Crowded Schools
A serious school problem is arising in connection with the defense program. In towns and cities near army camps, ship yards and the like, there is not only a shortage of homes but also a shortage of school facilities. School buildings and teachers are overtaxed; most of all, the school budget is.

With no added school revenue, school attendance may have jumped from five to 50 per cent. I gained some first hand information about these problems recently while lecturing.

The state legislature or congress, or both, should act quickly, if the native children of such places as well as the added children of officers, soldiers and civilian camp builders are not to be seriously deprived of proper education, health and recreation. All of us parents should be interested in such problems of other parents and bestir ourselves to insure justice to them and their children.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. Is it valuable to a youth who will go to college to learn to type while in high school?

A. Yes, indeed. Some who cannot fit typewriting courses into their high school schedule could afford to study typing during the summer, in the public schools or at a local commercial school.

The World and the Mud Puddles

THOSE JOHN DOES

There are plenty of overrated personalities in Hollywood and there are real geniuses, too. Frank Capra is one of the latter.

Capra attended Throop Academy, now Caltech, Los Angeles. He studied motion-picture making but all one could learn in school at that time was the business end of it. He knew a cameraman from whom he learned a bit more. He was in San Francisco looking for a job when he learned that an old actor named Montague was going to make a picture of Kipling's "Pitha Fisher's Boarding House." Capra told Montague he had just come from Hollywood, then beginning to become known as a movie center. Montague hired him to direct the picture—salary, $75 for the entire job.

Capra was thrilled but worried. He knew nothing about directing pictures. He couldn't afford a wire so he sent his cameraman friend a post card asking him to hurry to the picture. Capra knew that if he hired professional actors they would see that he didn't know his way around so he convinced Montague that the "John Does" of San Francisco—would ideally fit the parts in "Pitha's Boarding House."

The picture cost only $1000 and Montague was happy to sell it to Pathe for $3500. But it came so much nearer to art than most of the pictures then that its premiere was at the Strand, then New York's finest picture theatre, and it shared top box office honors for the season with a Harold Lloyd comedy.

That first effort, produced in a garage by an amateur, established Capra in the industry. It couldn't happen now. The Unions wouldn't stand for it. Persons who were merely jobless and hungry couldn't be given a break like that. But the sincerity with which those actors performed for him has made Capra feel ever since that the John and Jenni Does of America have a great deal of wasted quality in them to which society should give a break. That is the idea back of "Meet John Doe," Capra's latest picture.

Good Taste

See U. S. Patent Office

"When I have week end guests must I spend all of my waking hours with them? I never know whether it is permissible for me to excuse myself at intervals to attend to my chores."—Helen.

Answer: First assure yourself that your guests have found something congenial to talk to or something pleasant to do without you. Then go about your business. Without appearing to impose constant watchfulness upon them, check up on their situation from time to time just to assure yourself that they have not ceased to be interested in anyone or any pastime at hand. As soon as they appear to be bored or idle, reappear and start something.

But be sure that you are not forcing your own tastes upon your guests. Do not arrange a program of bridge or golf for anyone who dislikes either (and those not enthusiastic about these pastimes usually loathe them). Most important of all: Make it plain that according to the golden rule of your home anyone is at liberty at any time to retire to his room and relax and that you have the habit of doing likewise. This will give everyone, especially yourself, an excuse for one of those precious hours of aloneness that best fortify the nerves for pleasures to come.

Question: Recently I was asked by a friend to be her baby's God-mother. What are my obligations. Must I buy the baby's christening clothes? In addition to that, should I give the baby a present?—G. M.

Answer: You must give the baby a gift, which may be its christening clothes, but not necessarily so. If you plan to give it these clothes, you had better consult the mother, who may have her own plans as to what the baby shall wear. If you do give it such clothes, they will suffice as a gift. On the contrary, your gift may be anything else which you prefer.

Question: I have been married for several years but have just now completed my set of silverware. Please give me information about marking it. What initials should be placed thereon and does it make any difference on which side of the knife the marking is placed?—Mary T. S.

Answer: Silver obtained after marriage should be marked with the first letter of the husband's surname. That obtained before marriage should of course be marked with the bride's maiden initial. Since the sharp edge of the knife must be turned toward the plate when the table is set, the marking should be placed with this thought in mind.

Censorship Scheme Charged In Congress
Idea Mentioned Over Budget Item Wrangle
Office Of Government Reports Is Found

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 27.—That the administration plans creation of a sure-enough news censorship finally has been definitely charged in Congress. Representative George H. Bender of Ohio said so and several other legislators more or less agreed with him, although nobody else expressed himself quite as specifically as the Buckeye member did.

The wrangle was over a $1,500,000 item in the $1,415,991,838 appropriation bill to finance what are known as the government's various "independent offices, agencies and establishments," like the Federal Trade, Federal Power and Interstate Commerce commissions.

The Congressional Directory lists about 60 of these set-ups, variously called commissions, office boards, authorities, agencies, corporations, administrations and bureaus. And still more have been added since the last directory came out. Most of them have a lot of subdivisions, too, running up to a total of several hundred. So probably they really need nearly a billion and a half to keep 'em all going.

Executive Bodies
These outfits are executive in their nature, not much answerable to Congress, which consequently is pretty jealous of 'em. It creates them initially, so its inconsistent in the legislative branch to kick, but it does.

The row was over the allowance for the office of government reports. The measly little million and a half allocated to it drew no fire as an excessive amount. The complaint was that the office of government reports was established as an emergency organization, that now its idea is to make itself a permanent one and that its function is to be that of censoring the nation's news.

With the office's birth, Lowell Mellett was put in as its head. He's a newspaperman himself, and a corking good one, but was out of a job because he was too New Dealerish for his last paper's proprietorship. Under him the office was conducted as a clearing house for information relative to federal activities. Thus far, however, if reporters haven't been satisfied with the Mellett bureau's informativeness, they've been at liberty to get supplementary news from dozens and scores and even hundreds of other governmental sources.

Bender's Suspicion
Congressman Bender's belief is that the scheme now is to dry these other sources up, so far as they've been fountains of direct press news.

READING THE FUTURE

What about the future? What should a youngster learn today? That will finally chart and plot. Conduct fifteen years away? Everything is now so strange.

So confused and tossed away, Where in such a world of change Does the certain pathway lie?

Boy, I know not what will be. After fifteen years are spent. Or what methods, slave or free, Will be tried by government.

But I tell you this today, Pride will never grace the shirk. Youth will have no other way To achievement than by work.

Whate'er change may be, These will be rewarded still: Honor, courage, and strength of will. Never mind what curious creed Government at times invades.

These the world will always need: Skillful workers at the trades.

Would you live with dignity, Walk the street with head erect. Where you wander, welcome be, Then don't let your head be turned.

By some code that teaches ease, Pride and triumph must be earned. Work alone can give you these!

A Handicapped Board

WASHINGTON, March 27.

THERE are so many administrative boards and commissions here which either do not work at all or work very badly that it is not surprising when a new one is created by executive order that there should be a certain amount of skepticism as to its effectiveness among the less glib observers of the Washington scene.

IT, of course, is too early to forecast failure for the new Mediation Board of eleven which the President has named to deal with the grave problems created by the wave of strikes, which exist, and are threatened, in plants which either have defense contracts or manufacture articles indispensable to those which have these contracts. But it is not too early to point out the reasons too much should not be expected from this board. Despite the fact that there are a number of very good men among its members, the chances that it will end the strikes are not very good.

THE reasons are clear. In the first place, the board as Senator Harry Byrd has pointed out, has no real power to enforce its decisions. All it could do would be to align public sentiment back of a decision. Probably that could be done effectively, but there is an obstacle that appears fairly formidable. This is the fact that the board cannot function at all unless first called upon by the Department of Labor. The idea that if a great strike breaks out in the steel or coal industry the board can at once step in and begin to mediate is entirely without foundation. It cannot get into the picture at all until the Secretary of Labor has "certified" a strike to it as beyond the department's ability to adjust and as interfering with defense production.

MISS FRANCES PERKINS, Secretary of Labor, would have to do the certifying. So far as recorded, Miss Perkins has never reached the point where she thought the situation or any other form of strike was reprehensible. Her sympathies are definitely pro-union, and naturally she would exhaust every effort to settle strikes through her own department's conciliation agency before calling on an outside board. The new setup is such that to call it into action would be a confession of failure upon the part of the Labor Department. In brief, Miss Perkins, naturally, will call on the Mediation Board only as a last resort, and, until she calls, it has nothing to do and can do nothing.

THUS, it can be seen, the new board not only is not in position to avert strikes from being called but 1840—George Fisher Baker, financier, at Troy, N. Y. He was president of the First National bank of New York City. Among his many benefactions was a gift of $6,000,000 to the Graduate School of Business Administration of Harvard.

1844—Adolphus Washington Greble, soldier and scientist, at Newburyport, Mass. Entering as a private in the Civil War, he ultimately became a brigadier-general in the regular army and chief signal officer. As leader of a Polar expedition in 1882 he reached a point farther north at that time. Two relief expeditions failed to reach him, and when the party under Capt. Schermerhorn returned to Cape Sabine all but seven of his party were dead. He became a major-general in 1906.

Hints On Etiquette

If you are a girl sharing an apartment with another girl who is going "steady" with a young man, don't accept an invitation to go with them to the movies, no matter what they say. Or accept no presents or over-eloquent, or even occasional, they don't really want you with them, as a general thing, and a third party feels out of it, so it is better that you stay at home.

Eighteen tables of players enjoyed contests during the afternoon hours from 2 to 4:30 o'clock, and the same number shared in the evening from 8 to 10:30 o'clock.

Tea and dainty refreshments were served from a table attractively decorated in keeping with the patriotic motif. Tallies and other favors were made by Mrs. Howard Elliott, the British flag as the theme.

Mrs. Richard Knoblauch aided Mrs. Barkby in the afternoon and in the evening, Mrs. Joseph Ridley and Mrs. Harry Sturdevant assisted. At the close of the evening it was announced the sum of $46.00 had been realized.

lightenment—to make "em funnel their news all in to the office of government reports, which will give out only what it sees fit to have printed or radio broadcast.

Lowell Mellett, in the meantime, has been elevated to the rank of one of President Roosevelt's executive assistants "with a passion for anonymity," but he likewise is the government reports office's chief, just as Jesse H. Jones is secretary of commerce, and federal loan administrator, and export-import banker at the same time.

Now, Lowell has been mentioned as a probability for selection as our national censor, if we have one. I've had occasion to refer to these reports myself. I suppose Congressman Bender has heard some of this gossip. And maybe he linked it up with Lowell Mellett's name and the $1,500,000 item to maintain the office of government reports indefinitely, and arrived at his censorial conclusion. He didn't succeed in knocking the item out of the appropriation bill, but he made a sizable noise about it, anyway.

Propaganda?
Congressman Adolph J. Sabath of Illinois, repudiating the censorship implication but tacitly conceding that the government reports office may be a propaganda bureau (propaganda and a censorship are two different things; propaganda's trying to publicize what you WANT publicized, but a censorship is trying to bottle up facts that folk ought to know).

Anyway, Congressman Sabath contended that he thought $1,500,000 would be well spent on the government reports office to counteract "Nazi propaganda" in this country. "If your idea is to compete with the Nazis," answered Congressman Bender, "this is a good way to do it. I'll Nazi the United States!"

Yes, BOYS, KITE FLYING IS FUN But—
LET'S STAY AWAY FROM Electric Wires

Yes, fellas, have all the fun you want flying kites, but pick out a nice open space to fly them in because if that kite string of yours should tangle with one of those high voltage lines—especially, if the string was wet, some of you might be killed.

And, it might put a whole line out of commission—a line that carries light to hospitals and sick rooms—city fire pumps and factories.

So, watch where you fly your kites, and another thing, NEVER use fine wire for a kite string or any metal in the kite frame or tail.

strikes may easily run on for weeks, as they are doing now, without the board being able to do anything about them. The "cooling-off period" advocated by Mr. Knudsen is entirely ignored in the new arrangement. Mr. Knudsen's idea was for legislation that would fix a period of thirty or forty days after a strike was ordered before it became effective and work was stopped. This would give opportunity for reflection, negotiation and compromise. It seemed a sensible idea, but it has no place in the President's plan. Under it, there is nothing more to prevent strikes now than there was before he announced it.

ALL he has done is to appoint a board which, after a strike is on and the Department of Labor finds itself unable to settle, can be called in to try its hand. That really is all the Mediation Board amounts to. It was highly commended because of the character of its members and as a step in the right direction. And when it is considered that only a few weeks ago Mr. Roosevelt dismissed all these strikes with which the defense plants are afflicted as trivial and accused the newspapers of exaggerating them, it is a step in the right direction. But it isn't a very great step, because, like the OPM, he has not delegated to it real power.

ON the contrary, he has deliberately handcuffed his board by making it impossible for it to move until Miss Perkins "certifies" a case to it. And even then he has not helped make the board effective by loading it on the side of labor. The four employers' representatives balance the four labor leaders, but the fact that of the three members named to represent the public two are distinctly New Dealers, and inclined always to take the New Deal view, tips the scales on the labor side. Altogether, if the Mediation Board can rise above its handicaps and straighten out this strike situation, it will be proof of genius somewhere in its membership. There is an opportunity for it now in the Bethlehem Steel strike—and in the nineteen other strikes now retarding defense work.

The three states reporting largest annual consumption of sugar in food manufactures, Census records show, are New York, 757,427,292 pounds; Illinois, 607,901,373 pounds; and Pennsylvania, 469,170,604 pounds.

Plant Entrance Barred By Pickets At Beaver Falls

S. W. O. C. Membership Drive Affects Babcock And Wilcox Tube Plant

(International News Service)

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 27.—The Babcock and Wilcox Tube Company plant, handling national defense work exclusively, was closed today by a CIO-union picket line.

No disorders marked the shutdown but pickets remained on duty at plant gates after approximately 300 pickets totally barred entrance last night. Workers made no attempt to enter the plant at this morning's 7 o'clock shift.

S.W.O.C. Organizer Bert Hough, who announced the picketing as a "determined drive to make the plant 100 per cent unionized," said that work resumption would be permitted on today's afternoon shift. He warned, however, that no nonunion workers or delinquent dues members would be allowed to enter.

The union claims 1,800 members in the plant. Hough said the plant would be made 100 per cent union plant in the Beaver Valley.

"The company immediately notified the navy department that all production was shut down on tubes needed for naval construction work."

Plan Campaign For First Aid Squad Car Here

Organization Is Effected To Put On Campaign For Mobile First Aid Unit

WILLIAM BOWEN
NAMED CHAIRMAN

With a majority of the city firemen, and a number of the volunteers now trained in first aid methods, a campaign is planned immediately for a first aid squad car, the same as is in use in many surrounding communities, so that the men will have the facilities to take care of emergency cases when they are called.

At a preliminary meeting, William Bowen was named chairman, Fire Chief James E. Thomas and Assistant Chief George Harper, vice chairman, Joe Zeigler, financial chairman, and Ralph H. Montgomery, secretary and treasurer.

Another meeting of the committee will take place on Monday evening when plans for the campaign will be furthered.

Most cities and even small towns, have a mobile unit, the same as is proposed here, which will answer all emergency calls, and will be equipped with various first aid accessories for taking care of different types of accidents.

It is thought that around $2,500 will be needed to purchase a car, suitable to serve as an ambulance and carry members of the first aid crew and the equipment which will be needed.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

In the rear of a huge room in London, there is a glass cage and in this cage there sits, erectly and alertly, a man with enormous, quivering, bushy red eyebrows. The way figure in the cage conveys an impression of vastly heightened sensitivity, aided by those electrified eyebrows which seem to be nothing less than antennae, catching impulses beyond the reach of ear or eye.

The fate of the world may hang on the in-take and out-go of this glass cage, for here sits Sir Frederick Bowhill, Air Chief Marshal and Commander-in-Chief of the Coastal Command of the Royal Air Force. To millions of Englishmen, he is known as "Ginger," an obvious designation, not only because of those carotid eyebrows but because there is a whole lot of ginger in his every thought and action in these days of peril.

This glass cage is the nerve-center of Royal Air Force operations, from the African deserts to Iceland, flashing in constantly, night and day, comes word of every observable enemy movement in the air and on sea and land. Sir Frederick listens, his eyebrows cocked, and speaks into a megaphone a few quiet words of command which may wing fighting planes to attack, or scouting planes to some far reach of exploration, in northern snows or under the desert sun. Here is the highly sensitized ganglion of England's will to live.

As this is written it is the belief over there that Hitler may strike at any hour. Ocean-flying bombers from the United States, including the Lockheed-Hudsons, have arrived. It is Sir Frederick's sharp, clipped command which clears and poises them in the sky or sets them ranging in readiness for the attack.

On an enormous map in the huge office every known detail of the enemy's counter-blockade, the shifting of U-boats, Nazi bombers and surface raiders is plotted constantly through the day and night.

Sitting in his glass cage, Sir Frederick reads the ticker report of the stock market. In his home, Sir Frederick has five direct telephone wires from such war centers as the Admiralty, the Air Ministry and the War Office. Rarely does he get more than an hour or two of unbroken sleep. Just a few days ago, he leaped from his morning tub with only a towel draped around him, to bark into a radio transmitter a few terse orders which scattered a Nazi lunge at a convoy.

The Coastal Command, under Sir Frederick, gives protection to more than 400 convoys a month. His is the only command which has not changed since the start of the war, and it was the first to get into effective action the day the war broke. His endurance is the marvel of all who know him, an incredible demonstration of keen faculties never dimmed or flagging under crushing demands and responsibilities.

Sir Frederick is one man who says there'll always be an England—and he is perhaps her most important goal-keeper, barring Winston Churchill, in this hour of her greatest ordeal.

And here's another, General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, supreme commander of Britain's victorious Mediterranean armies. In Hitler's double-breasted, Sir Archibald's now-seasoned and triumphant army, wherever it is, offers a bold challenge to the Nazi drive down through the Southeast, historic jousting field of the route to India.

Crucial as is the zero hour at home, there is surely an ordeal of empire shaping here, and the tall, erect, trim-rigged General Wavell, with his clipped guardsman's moustache and his gleaming monocle, is as surely a man of destiny as was Wellington or Nelson. The monocle shields a blind eye, lost in the last war.

Legends already are gathering around his spruce, even dandified figure. His soldiers call him "Archie," when he can't hear them. The Turks call him "The Bloodhound," and the Arabs refer to him by a name hard to translate, but it seems to mean "Wavell the Wizard."

He is the most recently appointed of Britain's fifteen full generals. He carries his 57 years as jauntily as he carries the medals which deck his coat. Skiing is his favorite sport, which makes him somewhat of an expert in the desert. General Wavell's success has been due to the fact that he has been an improviser and innovator. Flexibility and surprise are his ace cards, and that is a reminder that he has a beautiful sense of timing a sort of Joe Louis instinct for the fateful moment.

Considering the fact that there has been only silence and secrecy in his sector for the last few days there is every reason to believe that Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, his Nazi opposite number, may learn something interesting about the general's trick of holding out an ace-kicker and drawing a full house. For, literally, he has been the most brilliant gambler of the British army.

Spring Work Starts At Cascade Park

Preparations are going forward at Cascade Park, looking toward the opening of this splendid summer resort in May.

New shelters are being erected, some on advantageous points overlooking the park scenery, and will doubtless be enjoyed by the patrons. Some of these will be flanked with beds of beautiful flowers.

A new, much larger band stand is in course of erection, just below former location of the old mill, using some of the lumber and posts of the old stand taken down last year.

The playground, located on the old mill site, is being cleared off and enlarged. On this ground, a log cabin has been erected, and will soon be completed. This will be for the use of the Girl Scouts and as a first aid station.

All the lumber for these frame buildings is from the dismantled mill and old bandstand.

Repairs are being made on the Dodge em building, the floors leveled and the cars repaired. Also repairs will be made on the merry-go-round, community hall, and dance pavilion.

C. C. Coulthard, park superintendent, states that the greenhouse is full of plants, and as soon as the weather permits, they will be set out in the many flower beds and other advantageous points in the park. These flowers will consist of geraniums, cannas, dahlias, marigolds, zinnias, phlox, hibiscus, etc.

Mr. Coulthard states that a new water line will be constructed across the creek into the center of the grove. This attachment can be used for the washing off tables and benches or laying the dust, should that become necessary.

It is expected that the buildings and fence of the swimming pool will be painted before the swimming season opens.

The falls presented a pretty scene this week, with water falling on one side and mammoth icicles of snow white hanging down from the western side of the falls.

The superintendent states that trees that have not had much attention for a number of years at the park have been examined this year and have been trimmed of dead limbs and dead trees have been removed.

Will Have Roles In Play At High School Friday

Louis Mico, Tom Middleton and Stanley Yakowicz play three of the male roles in "Swing Fever", the senior high school's second school play of the year. The entire cast numbers fourteen, with six boys and eight girls carefully chosen from the roll of the dramatics classes.

"Lew" and "Stan" took their first stage bows earlier in the year in the school's performance of "Janey's One-Track Mind". Young Middleton, whose unassuming nickname is "Herman", makes his first histrionic venture with a "character" part. He will be the grandfather in the Norris family whose activities are a complicated sequence of cause and effect set in motion by the family problem-boy, Alexander. "Grandpa" is feeble, but not in his mind. He is inclined to aid and abet his swing crazy grandson, Alec, and is on all occasions the family solon, full of wise-saws. And in the end when the whole family catches "swing-fever" even "grandpa" finds himself a partner and jigs with the rest of them.

All three boys have a highly creditable record for school activities in the varied life of the big school. It must be remembered that the school plays themselves are a school service and call for long hours of freely contributed time at rehearsals. These young men together with the other members of the cast represent the fine spirit of social-cooperation fostered in our public schools.

Louis Mico is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Mico of Beatty avenue. Tom Middleton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Middleton of Pine street. Stanley Yakowicz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Yakowicz of Liberty street in the Seventh Ward.

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Thomas the Doubter

"Behold, I send forth the promise of My Father upon you."—Luke 24:49.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 30 is Luke 24:36-53, the Golden Text being Luke 24:49. "Behold, I send forth the promise of My Father upon you.")

In last week's lesson, you remember, our Lord was put to death by His enemies and His body was consigned to the tomb of His friend, Joseph of Arimathea. The women who loved him "beheld the sepulchre and how the body was laid," and, after procuring spices and ointments to anoint the body, they left Him and went to observe the Sabbath.

Today we omit the scene at the tomb when the Marys went to anoint the body and found it gone, and take up our story when the disciples were gathered together talking, after some of them had seen the Risen Lord.

"And as they thus spake, Jesus Himself stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you," the typical eastern greeting. In spite of what they had heard of Jesus' resurrection from the dead, the disciples were "terrified and affrighted, and supposed that they had seen a spirit."

"And He said unto them, Why are ye troubled? and why do thoughts arise in your hearts? 'Behold My hands and My feet, that it is I myself: handle Me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see Me have.'"

Begin to Rejoice
At those words, they began to rejoice, but still could not believe, so Jesus asked them if they had any food, and when they brought some He ate it to show them that it was indeed He risen from the dead.

He reminded them how He had told them before His death that He would rise again to fulfill the law as written in Moses and the prophets concerning him. "Then opened He their understanding, that they might understand the scriptures."

And further He said: "Thus it is written, and thus it behooved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day: 'And ye are witnesses of these things.'"

The disciples were to start their preaching at Jerusalem, but were told to tarry awhile "until ye be endued with power from on high"—the Holy Ghost.

Then He led them on the road to Jerusalem as far as Bethany, and He lifted up His hands and blessed them.

"And it came to pass, while He blessed them, He was parted from them, and carried up into heaven. All their fear had left them now. The 11 disciples left after the tragedy of Judas' treason and self-destruction, were filled with great joy. Heretofore, when they had met together they were in terror of arrest, and were most careful who was admitted to their presence. But their Master had returned, and although He had again been taken away, they had their instructions to spread the gospel throughout the nations and to fear not. So they worshipped Jesus and returned to Jerusalem, with great joy, where they were 'continually in the temple,' openly praising and blessing God."

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Milk is one of the chief boons to mankind, if it is clean milk. Many outbreaks of disease have been traced to dirty milk.

Many babies formerly died from summer sickness, due to unclean milk.

The production of clean milk is based on definite principles.

On tested health of cows, especially regarding tuberculosis.

On cleanliness of animals, milking utensils and milkers.

On prompt removal of the product from the milking barn.

On immediate cooling to a temperature of 40 degrees Fahrenheit.

On clean handling in the dairy and during steps of delivery.

On sterilized capped bottles of pasteurized or certified milk.

There should be no compromise with proper regulations.

Health of all depends on adequate laws and complete supervision.

The number of men taking an active interest in Girl Scouting is increasing every day. They serve on local councils and meet with troops as hobby experts.

Beautiful "Cantata" At Trinity Church

"The Crucifixion" Presented By Senior Choir; Talking Pictures Of Britain Shown In Guild Room

Beautifully given and of exceptional merit, was the "Cantata" presented Wednesday evening in Trinity Episcopal church, corner of North Mill and East Falls street, and it was evidenced, the purpose of this feature, arranged as a part of the Lenten devotion of the parish and designed especially through the art of music to bring people nearer to the great Christian realities wrought by the Son of God on the Cross, was most amply realized.

The large appreciative audience listened intently to "The Crucifixion" by Sir John Stainer, given by the Senior Choir under the supervision of director and organist, Miss Isabel T. Johnson, who also presided at the console.

Variety was added by two choruses from Oliver to Calvary by J. H. Maender which were sung. Much credit is due those who took part in this beautiful and well balanced program. Numbers were sung with precision and feeling, leaving a lasting impression in the hearts of those who attended.

The choir excelled in their efforts last evening and special recognition is given Miss Johnson for her splendid leadership making this delightful "Cantata" possible. Soloists were outstanding in their selections adding further to the eloquence of the "Cantata." In this group were Miss Nellie Ingram, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley M. Arnold, Franklyn Rice and C. H. Smyth. The quartet composed of Miss Nellie Ingram, soprano; Miss Kathryn Bittner, contralto; Dudley M. Arnold, tenor and William B. Howe, bass.

Preceding, a short service was conducted by the rector, Rev. P. C. Pearson and following the "Cantata," the assemblage was invited to the Guild Room where several reels of talking pictures were shown by T. Gwin Lewis and L. T. Lewis, under the auspices of the Layman's League, relating existing conditions in Britain, and told how she is supplied by the convoy system. The pictures, recently received here, are being shown through the courtesy of the Lawrence County Unit of the British War Relief, Harry Guilford announced. Those shown last evening were "The New Britain," telling the achievements noted since the last war; "Flood Convoy" which outlined the routine followed by the convoy, to England; "Coastal Defense" made clear the constant guarding of the coast against invasion; "The Answer" showed the spirit attained by the people in all parts of Britain, holding their heads high and keeping in their hearts at all times, prayers to God, that "Britain can't fail."

More than 12 million proof gallons of brandy are used annually in wine manufacture in the U. S., according to the census bureau.

Twenty thousand names of prospecting gold miners were turned in to the Census Bureau when all assayers were requested to submit names of gold miners who had turned in "pay dirt" in 1939. The Census Bureau, investigating these for the census of the gold mining industry, found that many of them averaged less than $10 per week from their discoveries.

Executives Club Hears Explorer Of Canadian Wild

Beautiful Color Films Accompany Talk On Wildlife At Timberline

Members of the New Castle Executives club and their ladies had a treat at their monthly dinner meeting last evening, when they heard Martin K. Bovey, noted explorer of the Canadian wild, talk on flora and fauna at the timberline, which was accompanied by color movies of the district which he has been exploring in the mountainous section of Manitoba.

The pictures were particularly beautiful and some difficult photography work was handled in a superb manner by Mr. Bovey in his sequences on wild life, pictures having been secured of the elusive Rocky mountain big horn sheep at a distance of 40 feet.

He also showed a film on trout fishing, which appealed to devotees of this sport, and accompanied each showing with a vivid word picture.

President William J. Caldwell presented James A. Rugh, who introduced the speaker. It was announced that the next meeting, which will be on April 15, will be the last in the current program, prior to the resumption next October following the summer recess.

The speaker on this occasion will be George Danglefield, noted magazine editor and critic, who is also rated as an entertaining speaker.

right did the fourteenth amendment question?

One question asked is "if the United States went to war would you fight for the country? Applicants from nations that have been overrun by the Nazis answer that one in a hurry.

Plans for the addition to the court house have been completed by Architect Harry M. Wirsing and await now only the approval of the court and the grand jury. The county commissioners have approved the plans, the county controller has, and on Wednesday Mr. Wirsing presented the plans to the court.

When the court approves the plans permanently, they will go to the June terms of the Grand Jury. With the approval of this body, the Court of Quarter Sessions must then pass upon them and the commissioners can ask for bids.

If the plans go through the regular channels on time, building of the new addition can be started sometime in July it is thought.

tion in the south. He returned to duty Wednesday morning.

The quietest place on the hill these days is the office of permanent registration. In the period between February 15 and 22, only seven voters registered, five of them Republican and two of them Democrat.

Residents of the road leading from the Harlansburg road over to the East Brook-Volant road have a complaint concerning the new road which will be built this spring. These residents along live near East Brook insist the highway department has put a curve in a road which has always been straight and that the curve is entirely unnecessary.

Several of them have been in to the county commissioners complaining of the curve and have asked that it be taken out. The argument seems to be over the matter of stakes. The residents say the stakes show a curve and the commissioners insist the stakes they have been looking at are offset stakes and that no curve is contemplated.

AN ODD STOMACH AILMENT THAT IS FOUND IN BABIES

Among the congenital abnormalities that can occur in a baby's digestive system and prevent him from swallowing or digesting his food properly are unbalanced, or overgrown muscles controlling a stomach passage.

The walls of the stomach contain two layers of muscles which propel the food through that organ. One of these sets of muscles runs the long way of the stomach, and the other set work at right angles to this. At the entrance to the stomach, the muscles are thick and strong and form a small passageway that opens and closes.

When the food starts down the throat and tube that leads to the stomach, the nerves normally cause these muscles to relax, the entrance then opens, and the food passes through. Then the muscles contract, close the entrance and keep the food in. Many a small boy has stood on his head after dinner and wondered why the food didn't fall back down his throat again. Well, this muscular apparatus is the reason.

Operation of these stomach muscles by the nerves is one of the reasons that an overweight person shouldn't be around a child when it is feeding. The baby's nervous impulses are affected by emotion, and if the nerves are upset, then the stomach nerves don't act normally. In some cases these upset nerves will keep the muscles at the stomach entrance closed. When the food can't get through, it is vomited up again.

At the other end of the stomach are another set of muscles not unlike those at the entrance. And if a child is upset nervously, sometimes these remain flexed and the exit is closed. This means that the food can't pass on into the intestines at the proper time. So again, the child will vomit.

These nervous upsets may make a child lose its food, but they aren't the result of a physical deformity. We do have cases in which these sets of muscles described above aren't properly balanced. We call the condition Pyloric Stenosis. The muscles are thicker and heavier than they should be. When the food has been partially digested in the stomach and is ready for the intestine, these muscles may remain closed and won't let it through. So, as in the case where the nervous reaction kept these muscles taut, if the food can't get down, it comes up and out the upper end of the stomach—in other words, the child vomits.

For some strange reason, this abnormality appears five times as often in boy as in girl babies. Often the case shows a history of taking nourishment and thriving for a couple of weeks before the vomiting starts. The vomiting in such cases is unusual in its force. Sometimes it will come out of the poor baby's mouth like a stream from a fire hose. Sometimes the erupted food is thrown a distance of four feet.

This forcefulness of course, is merely the result of efforts of the other stomach muscles in trying to force the food through the lower end of the stomach.

Fortunately, there is a cure for this phenomenon. It is a small operation that requires the attention of a competent surgeon and a 10-day stay in the hospital. It is vital, however, for the operation to take place before the infant loses strength through lack of nourishment.

Thomas C. Blevins Is Found Drowned

Body Of Retired Rural Mail Carrier Of Volant, Discovered In Volant Mill Pond

Thomas Clark Blevins, aged 72, retired rural mail carrier of Volant, was found drowned in the mill pond at Volant about 3 o'clock this morning, County Coroner T. F. Nugent reported today.

Mr. Blevins, who has been in a highly nervous condition of late, left the house about 2:15 o'clock this morning and when he was missed by members of the family a search was instituted, resulting in the finding of his body a short time later.

Mr. Blevins, born in Washington township on September 11, 1868, son of James and Eliza Clark Blevins, had resided in Volant for the past 30 years where he was a well known and highly respected citizen. He had not been well for the past couple of years.

For 45 years Mr. Blevins had been married to Martha McConnell Blevins, who survives him. Mr. Blevins was a ruling elder in the Volant Presbyterian church for many years. In 1920 he was sent as a commissioner to represent Shenango Presbytery at the Presbyterian General Assembly in Philadelphia. There was no minister sent that year and Mr. Blevins represented the entire Presbytery.

In addition to his wife, he leaves the following children: Mrs. Esther Johnson of Volant R. D. 1, Theodore S. at home, Earl E. of Portersville, Ivan C. of Harrisburg Pa.; three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth McConnell of Volant R. D. 2, Mrs. Margaret Martin of New Castle and Mrs. Mary McGary of Volant R. D. 1; one brother, Robert K. of New Wilmington, and two grandchildren, Dale and Jean Johnson. He was preceded in death by a daughter, Anna E., 13 years ago.

The body has been removed to the Cunningham funeral home at Leesburg and will be taken Friday afternoon to the home of a daughter, Mrs. Hollis Johnson, Volant R. D. 1. Funeral services will be conducted from the Johnson home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. Homer K. Miller, pastor of the Volant-Rich Hill Presbyterian church, in charge. News Briefs From City Hall

James Tosh and Al Koscho, from out-of-town, were arrested by police last night because of disorder in a local beverage place. They were taken to the city police station and a friend, Joe Pastin, also from out-of-town appeared and according to police told them how police conduct affairs in other cities. He was unruly, the officers claimed and also arrested him. In police court today Mayor Charles B. Mayne fined each $5.00.

Police of this city today were requested by Franklin, Pa., authorities to "notify Frank E. Reynolds, formerly of Franklin, that his youngest son, Albert had died in Texas and that the body is now in Franklin."

Raymond Shaffer, 18, of R. D. 1, who reportedly was with two other boys in their teens, all of whom allegedly were tampered with meters recently was turned over to authorities by his father last night. The boy, like the other two, was placed in custody of Juvenile Court Officer J. M. Dunlap.

City council met today in the city building where Finance Director James L. Fink submitted a bill which authorizes the length of office for members who constitute the Authority. They will be the mayor and council. Terms will range from one to four years. The Authority ordinance gives the city power to do things now relative to taxes they previously could not do. The Authority ordinance is patterned after the State Authority Act, according to councilmen.

Alex G. Anderson, Transfer, Pa., reported last night to police, his Ford sedan, was stolen from near the Pennsylvania Engineering works.

Council convened today in city hall and sent to committee for consideration a petition in which it was asked the city arrange a city-wide WPA paving project for Howard Way between Reynolds street and Phillips hill.

Berlin Insists Yugoslavia Pact Is Not Changed

(International News Service)
BERLIN March 27.—Firm conviction that Yugoslavia will not risk the "disastrous consequences" entailed in denouncing adherence to the tripartite pact was expressed in Berlin today.

News of King Peter's seizure of power electrified Berlin in the midst of official ceremonies in honor of Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka.

But official spokesmen insisted that the legal status of Yugoslavia's adherence to the Axis had not been altered. A change of regime in Belgrade does not absolve the new government of responsibility for respecting the commitments made at Vienna.

German authorities assumed an attitude of watchful waiting pending definite clarification of the situation.

The Reich, it was said, is ready to deal with any "contrary eventualities."

Norristown Spared
'Blitzkrieg Attack'
(International News Service)
INDIAN TOWN GAP, Pa., March 27.—Norristown was spared today from a scheduled "blitzkrieg attack" by armored forces of the 28th Division.

Motorized cavalry of Troop D, Norristown, was slated to make an overnight march on the Montgomery County community but army chiefs decided the scout-car operators were not ready to drive at night on public highways.

Although the five-ton armored vehicles were maneuvered satisfactorily on the rolling fields of the reservation, Major Blon C. Weiker, plans and training officer for the cavalry, ordered the troop to defer its "march on Norristown" until tests prove the men capable of driving the cars through traffic.

Full-scale training was underway as infantry and artillery, cavalry and band members maneuvered in the field.

The infantrymen took to the road with the first battalion of the 11th Infantry staging a two-hour march and the headquarters company engaged in scouting and patrolling.

Will Raise Flag At Epworth Sunday

Appropriate Ceremonies To Mark Raising Of Huge Flag At Methodist Church

The large American flag made by girls of the N. Y. A. Crawford-Oakridge Home, will be raised with appropriate ceremonies on the flag-pole of the Epworth Methodist church Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The flag, which is 18 by 24 feet (twice as wide and long as a 9 by 12 rug), will be carried from the church by 16 Girl Scouts in uniform. The Boy Scouts of America will supervise the actual flag raising ceremony and two of the girls from the Crawford-Oakridge Home, that have been identified with the making of the flag, will raise the flag to its place on the pole.

On Sunday evening, the flag will be displayed in the church sanctuary and a special dedicatory service will be held around it inasmuch as the flag will be sent to Pittsburgh where it will be used at an N. Y. A. center there. Rev. William A. Thornton, pastor of the church, will give the address, entitled, "O, Say Can You See." Delegations from the N. Y. A. home will be present and patriotic people and organizations are cordially invited to participate in making this service an event of such a character that it will be a factor in promoting Americanism at its best.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 27.—The 1941 legislative session has been dull and uneventful so far and there is nothing to indicate that any fireworks will result later. The session is now in its second half, with legislative leaders heading for a May adjournment. Present indications are that little legislation will be enacted. What with the war and the 1942 gubernatorial election in the offing, both parties appear content to take things easy and not stir up a ruckus.

House Democrats will have to make a decision soon on what attitude to take toward the department of commerce. They have it in their power to wipe out all its intents and purposes, the two-year-old agency by refusing to approve an appropriation for its expenses. A Democratic-sponsored bill has been introduced in the house to abolish the department and recreate the state planning board as an independent agency. On the other hand, the administration has introduced a bill appropriating $400,000 to the department for publicity work, in addition to the regular appropriation included in the biennial budget. Present indications are that the commerce department will survive.

Some Democrats expect to see their party take over its functions in 1943.

Reapportionment of congressional districts in Pennsylvania is still not underway, although the session is now past its half-way mark. However, action is expected soon. Pennsylvania's representation in congress will be reduced from 34 to 33. In the event no action is taken by the legislature all 33 congressmen will have to be elected at large.

There is no indication, however, that congressional reapportionment will be accompanied by house and senate reapportionment. According to the constitution there must be a reshuffling of districts every ten years, but the General Assembly has disregarded the constitution since 1921, when the last legislative reapportionment occurred. The Democrats attempted to reapportion the state in 1937, but the courts threw out the act as unconstitutional. The last congressional reapportionment was in 1931.

"Doubtful" appears to be the proper classification for the Edmunds home rule bill. The measure, designed to carry out a constitutional provision approved by the people years ago, appears to stand only a slim chance of passage. What is still more likely is that it will never come out of committee for a vote. If it does, it will be amended. Legislators predicted, so much that the finished version will bear little resemblance to the original bill. Under the measure as it now stands all municipalities would be empowered to establish any form of municipal government they desired without the approval of the legislature.

Any boy who is a member of the Midget class is eligible to be in this act and should get their contract and have it signed and returned to Physical Director William Winter.

The Cadet class will also perform in a separate drill which will be one of the hits of the carnival. Any boy who is a member of the "Y" and hasn't yet turned in his contract is urged to do so at once.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging headaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Brothers, Champs, Sluggers, To Be On Fight Docket

Leasures, Baxter, Klingensmith, Reale, O'Brien, Kurtz To Box

WARGO AND HARRISON SCHEDULED TO FIGHT

Two tournament champs, two brothers, some sluggers, extraordinary. In instance, Marion Klingensmith and Billy Reale and the well known Russell Baxter, this city's future fistic hope, will adorn the pugilistic docket to be staged Monday night in The Arena, and providing the fans will have something to talk about for several weeks to come. To be frank, the Jefferson A. C. is chortling loud and long about the coming punch extravaganza.

Two weeks ago fast-moving and crafty Reggie O'Brien jabbed Marion Klingensmith so often he kept the Brownsville middleweight off balance and "Klimex" didn't have a chance to nail the Irishman with one of his lethals. O'Brien won by a knockout in the eighth round. Claiming lack of condition, Marion hustled into hard training and the Dutchman hopes to stop the Irishman Monday night. Whether he can win or takes another beating remains to be answered.

Russell Baxter, this city's welterweight who has been knocking foes stiff, bowl-legged and wobbly, will fight Young Watson of Vestaburg. According to report, Young Watson is to be the "acid test" for the New Castle high school student. Believing that Russell faces his most formidable opponent, a Baxter Rooters' club has been formed by friends to cheer him while he is battling the invader.

The Leasures, yes sir, folk, there's two of em, Les alias the Canoe Kid and Baby Face, 160 and 130, respectively, are in for a rough night. The "Canoe Kid" will shoot right hand specialties at Charlie McLaughlin of McKeesport and his Baby Face brother will fire punches at Bobby Bell, McKeesport. Baby Face and Bell are novices. Baby Face already has one knockout to his credit having won recently at Ellwood City.

Newspaper Champions. The two champs certain to appear there may be three as Nick Wargo of McKeesport who will fight Luther Harrison of Uniontown. The former is the Sun-Tele Diamond Belt king at 126 and Harrison captured similar honors when the Uniontown News-Standard staged a tourney. Fans readily can see there will be not only hot rivalry but lots of action in this scrap at 126.

Sparky Jarosik, the Sun-Tele Diamond Belt champion at 175 may come to battle Charlie Rivers of Pittsburgh. If Sparky can appear his place will be filled by Sammy Morris of Vestaburg. This affray holds promise of being a mighty good scrap.

Billy Reale, former of Lawrence county, and who makes up his hat at Castlewood, will take on Tod Cole, a newcomer from Brownsville at 160. Billy, a looper over, rugged middleweight hopes to send Tod back sadder but wiser, that is, if he can.

Muddy Kurtz, the well known "one man club" of the ring" will take on Eddie Bupka of Vestaburg who scored a knockout here one week ago. When matched Muddy, the fistic Slivers chortled: "Bring on that youngster. I'll burlesque him into a laughing spree then knock him into someone's lap."

The Jefferson A. C. believes the card so good they already have placed a stack of pasteboards in various places and some of them already have been snatched by fans, who prefer good, honest amateur boxing to exhibition wrestling with its acrobatics.

NAVY NINE OPENS

SEASON SATURDAY

Annapolis—Navy's baseball team meets the 1941 season Saturday, facing Dartmouth College, at Annapolis.

For the past several weeks, Coach Rishon has been working indoors with his proteges. The Middies are in fine fettle for the diamond campaign.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Determination plus ability won for Lower Merion over Luzerne in the eastern regional basketball final of the P.I.A.A. play, according to Coach Bill Anderson and he carries a hope they will be able to vanquish Duquesne Saturday night at Pittsburgh. However, the history of Lower Merion quintets against western Pennsylvania fives is somewhat gloomy. On three occasions when the state title was within grasp, Lower Merion bowed to Sharon, Scott High of North Braddock and Homestead.

Pari-mutuel betting at harness and hunt races in this state was proposed in the state senate at Harrisburg yesterday by Senator John Dene. Dene, of Westmoreland county. The measure provides that races be licensed annually and the state's five percent share of the proceeds would go to the department of agriculture for promotion work. There have been harness races here. However, there has been no open betting. To say there has been no betting would be false.

Four days after running the fastest two miles in history, Joe Gregory Rice, former Notre Dame athlete, was declared physically unfit for military service. He has a triple hernia which explains his situation. Gregory underwent an operation while in college but re-injured himself a few months later. The ailment became aggravated this winter when he ran a 9:14 two miles on a flat board track which had been waxed. He made the time of 8:51.1 in the two mile run at the Chicago relays last Saturday. This is the fastest time ever made for that distance. He also holds the indoor record for 2 1/2, 3 1/2, and three miles. His time for the three miles is 13:51.

Seventh annual boxing tourney of the N.C.A.A. will begin today at State college with four score amateur fighters and 22 colleges represented. Just as a reminder, Billy Soose was a former amateur of this section. He took good care of himself and practiced his art diligently. He is now matched to fight for the world's middleweight championship. Perhaps some of the New Castle boxers may take a leaf out of Soose's books.

Elizabeth Hicks vs. Dorothy Kirby, and Mrs. Estelle Page vs. Mrs. William Heckenroth is the order of semifinal play in the North and South Women's Golf tourney today at Pinehurst. They won their Wednesday matches. Canada Lee, former welterweight title aspirant, who retired in 1938, is now renowned as a thespian in New York. Pennsylvania State association will adopt the 1941 schedule today at Butler, according to League President Elmer Daily. The loop consists of Johnstown, Oil City, Beaver Falls, Washington, Butler and Warren, O.

Lawrence County Baseball league officers and team managers will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Sport Goods store, according to League Secretary James Martin. Ellwood City won the 1940 pennant. Representatives of last season's teams in addition to new teams seeking franchises are expected to be present. It is likely that arrangements will be made for an election of officers and appointment of a schedule committee.

Cage Tutors Want Standardized Game

Demand Same Rules Throughout; Urge Abolition Of Fan-shape Backboard

If the nation's collegiate basketball coaches have their way, the cage sport will be a standardized affair come the 1941-42 season.

During their closing meeting in New York recently, the American Association of Basketball Coaches demanded that the national rules committee standardize its legislation so that basketball will be played everywhere the same way.

For one thing, the mentors advocate that the current third second rule be amended so that a player may hold his position in the back part of the foul circle as long as he wishes. The association also urged the abolition of the new-fangled fan-shape backboard.

Nels Norren, Chicago, was named president during the convention, succeeding Nat Holman.

LONG BEACH, N. Y., March 27.—Abe Simon, heavyweight contender, who served as a policeman in the summers of 1937, 1938 and 1939 in this Long Island community, today was appointed deputy police commissioner of Long Beach by Mayor Theodore Ornstein.

Simon, who went 13 rounds with Joe Louis last Friday night in Detroit, will get another chance at the crown when he meets the Brown Bomber in Madison Square Garden on May 9.

Scorpions And Genevans Will Be In Finals

Both Advance To Class B Finals By Defeating Carm A. C. And Bessemer Jrs.

FRANCIS PITZER OUTSTANDING STAR

The class B championship of the fourth annual city-county basketball tourney will be fought for Saturday night between the Scorpions and Genevans. Both teams advanced to the finals last night by defeating the Bessemer Jrs. and Carm A. C. teams in well played games.

The last game last night found the Genevans with too many guns for the Carm A. C. team. The first half ended 16 to 13 in favor of the Genevans with Daubenspeck and Matur leading the scoring. The Carm A. C. players could locate the Genevans for but three field goals in the second half while the Genevans banged in five fielders and four fouls for 14 points. Daubenspeck and Pete Matur were the Genevans' standout stars, with Davies and McGary best for the losers.

Scorpions Win Game. Led by Francis Pitzer, the outstanding class B player to date, the Scorpions advanced into the finals by handing a hard fighting Bessemer Jrs. team a 38 to 21 defeat. The Bessemer led 6 to 3 the first period and at the half the Scorpions had a 14 to 13 lead, mostly through the brilliant work of F. Pitzer, who had eight of the points.

The Bessemer team battled hard the second half, but could not halt Pitzer, who with 16 points was the big factor in the Scorpions' win, along with Al Christopher, who had a nice evening, making 10 of the points. The Scorpions have a well balanced team coached by Fred McLaughlin and will give the Genevans a hard tussle the final night. Johnson and Summers were the standouts for the Bessemer team.

Local Cager Whips Team Single-Handed

Pops In 24 Markers, Enough To Trim Foes, 24-20, Here Last Night

Did you ever hear of a basketball player scoring every point rimmed by his team? It happened last night in the Pearson league games played on the Aiken high floor.

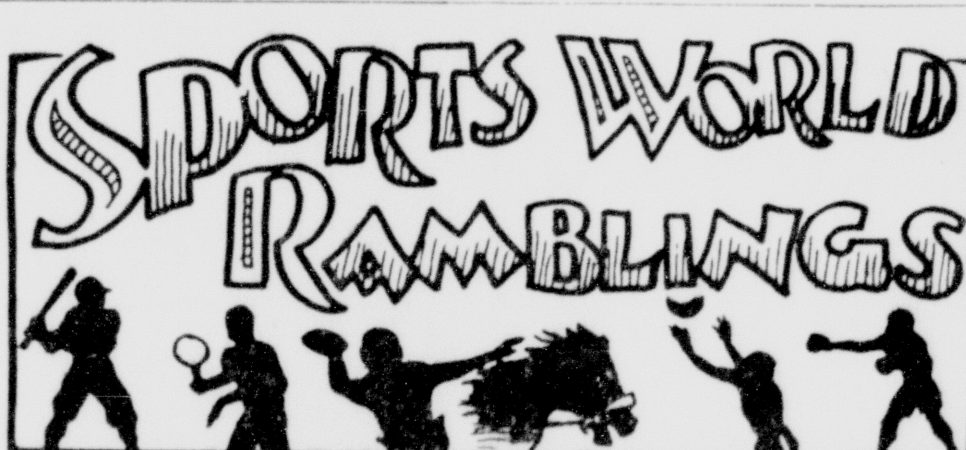

The lad was Leckfor. Flaunting the colors of the Ohio State quintet, Leckfor flipped 24 points, enough to down Purdue, 24-20. In other loop games, Northwestern upset Wisconsin, 28-20, Illinois setback Michigan, 34-30 and Minnesota edged Iowa, 31-30.

Miller, Pace, Dadjko, Campbell, N. Russo, DeLorenzo and Paglione were among the high scorers. Tex Richards officiated.

CELTICS WIN GAME

The Celtics defeated the Globetrotters in a House League play-off game at the "Y" last night 31 to 26. At the half the "Celts" led 13 to 9. Scoring stars in the game were: Kulich, J. Adams and Vargo. The second game of the series on Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Paul Thompson gave his Chicago players white pajamas, with their initials embroidered on the lapels, for Christmas.

Back at the o'l stand after a week along the Gay White Way, I'll take up a couple of days to find the groove. Two shorts from Manhattan and we promise to forget the big hicktown. . . .

One of them concerns Bonner Poushey who played football-basketball for Bessemer High in 1934-35-36. He checked in at Ohio University following his schoolboy career. He packed his collegiate sheepskin under his arm and hustled off for New York. Today Poushey, a handsome well-dressed personality, is a cub reporter on the New York Daily News. He told us to peddle back greetings to his Bessemer friends. . . .

The last shortly involves Fred Shellig. Announcement that Long Island has abandoned football leaves Fred out in the cold, footballically speaking for the second time in his collegiate career. The first break came at Notre Dame when he quit school together with his more famous brother, Alex. He then entered Long Island and has been a mainstay for two seasons. He'll probably complete studies. . . .

Ralph "Ruffles" Johns has dropped in his monthly report. Private Johns is stationed in France, Field, Canal Zone. The ex-gate crasher says that everything is going well. The south sider tells about striking a new acquaintance with a one Dom Aden of Cronon avenue. Johns says he's elated because "I've been assigned to the Seventh Reconnaissance Squadron, radio camouflage, photography and other technical work."

Someone wants to know where John Carik is. The ex-New Castle high basketball artist and a talented pitcher comes to his rescue with a card from Port Belvoir, Virginia. The good looking athlete is a member of company A second engineering training battalion. Carik is studying in an engineering school.

Tourney Finals Saturday Night

Gersons And Polish Falcons Will Battle For Class A Championship

FINE TROPHIES TO BE PRESENTED

The finals in the Fourth Annual City-County basketball tourney will be played Saturday night at the George Washington high floor. The Class A feature attraction will have the Polish Falcons seeking to defend their 1940 championship when they battle the Gerson quintet.

This game will be the "rubber" game for the two teams, each having defeated the other on their previous floor. Who will win this one is the question the fans are asking. What a battle it should be, too hard fighting basketball teams.

The tourney committee today announced that the tournament tickets will not be honored the final night of the tourney, and that admission tickets will sell for the same price as last year 20 cents for students and 35 cents for adults.

Good Class B Game. The Class B battle will bring together the Scorpions made up of former and present Shenango High stars coached by Fred McLaughlin and the Genevans composed of Lawrence County boys, who are attending Geneva College. The Scorpions last night won their way to the finals by beating the Bessemer Jrs., and the Genevans trounced the Carm A. C. last night in the semi-finals.

The New Castle Music Council will realize quite a nice sum from the tourney this year. It is understood. The entire proceeds of the tourney will be turned over to the Music Council treasurer. The five trophies will be presented after the games on Saturday night. And effort is being made to have Coach Grover Washbaugh of Westminster College make the presentations.

Plan Fishing Derby At Pymatuning Lake

(Special To The News) GREENVILLE, Pa., March 27.—This week marks the fifth anniversary of the date upon which Pymatuning Lake first reached its flow-line level. Annual memoriam of previous flood disasters is now only a reminder of the security against flood menace. According to Resident Engineer Norman S. Powell, the water level today stands at 1,000 which is two feet below its normal flow-line. Emergency flash-boards will accommodate another two feet of water, which means that a flood similar to that of 1913 could be retained in the reservoir's reserve capacity without spilling a drop.

The fifth anniversary also served as the signal for a drive to educate the sportsmen, fishermen and outdoor enthusiasts in Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio toward the development of the surrounding Pymatuning area. The net result has been a newly-formed Pymatuning Sports Association that is initiating its projected series of sports events by a fishing derby to be held over a three-day period in June.

The formation of a Pymatuning Sports Association, which already has reached proportions of more than 300 members since its launching at the Second Annual Ice Carnival has been made with a view to sponsoring year round activities for participants and spectators.

Beginning with an ice carnival a year ago which attracted nearly 10,000 people, and another in February which nearly doubled that number, the idea was conceived that a program be devised to stage other events in season. Out of this grew the idea for a sports association which would aid existing groups in staging events on a more lavish scale than feasible heretofore.

It is stated by the sponsors of the association that a membership goal of 3,000 by July 1 has been set, and local chairmen have been named in nearly a score of communities within a 100-mile radius of the lake to recruit small outdoor enthusiasts. Membership blanks for communities not yet listing a chairman may be obtained through the Greenville headquarters. Melvin A. Blair, Greenville, is acting as temporary chairman until a permanent organization and charter can be obtained. J. W. Clark, of Jamestown, is the acting treasurer.

Among the communities in which chairmen have been named are: Greenville, J. P. Darr; Jamestown, J. W. Clark; Farrell, F. W. Moore; Andover, Theodore Richardson; Saegertown, Bruce Patterson; Shenandoah, John A. Gedeon.

Bushnell, executive director of the central office for eastern intercollegiate athletics, drawing attention to the drive for 5,000 stop watches by the American committee for defense of British Homes was announced today. At the same time the committee made known that it has received more than $3,000 worth of stop watches to date.

WORK GLOVES AND THE LIKE? . . . Please folks . . . help me out . . . it's very important that this information be gathered at once.

* * *

Right now every patriotic blooded American is thinking how dear the United States is today, compared to those countries across the sea . . . and when we think of the United States we think of the Red, White and Blue . . . that is where the young ladies of the Crawford Oakridge Home come in . . . this home is sponsored by the N. Y. A. and these girls have just finished an American Flag . . . it is 18 feet by 24 feet . . . some size, and it will be sent to their headquarters in Pittsburgh . . . in order for the public of New Castle and Lawrence County to see this large flag . . . arrange Epworth Methodist Church to put it on display Sunday . . . they have a large flag pole up there and colors will be raised at 9:30 Sunday morning. The Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts will participate and be responsible for the formal ceremony at that time. So be sure that you make it a point to go up that way some time Sunday and see this gigantic flag. The workmanship is superb and really worth seeing . . . at 7:30 P. M. there will be services will be along in the auditorium and after a dedicatory service with the pastor Rev. William A. Thornton will speak on "O Say Can You See" or what the American Flag means to me. The public is invited to attend this service.

It is wise to use the classified ads when you lose a dog . . . but then it is also wise to pay the dog catcher a visit. Now yesterday the dog catcher picked up a little black and white part cocker spaniel . . . no identification tag or anything . . . chances are the owner is looking every place. And if any one would like to have this dog, maybe some arrangement can be made with the D. C.

May we suggest that you read the classified ad page now and then.

List Is Higher From Start Today, Rails And Specialties Set Fast Pace

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 27.—The stock market put in a strong performance today, stimulated by the anti-Nazi coup in Yugoslavia.

The list was higher from the start and moved up for gains running to 2 points or more by midday. Steels, rails and specialties set the pace.

Feature was Pullman which ran up over 2 points on the company's offer to buy $15,000,000 of its stock.

Rails added to recent gains, helped by the rise in loadings to a new high last week. Gains ran to almost 2 points in Pere Marquette preferreds, which hit new highs along with Atchafalaya.

Steels scored advances running to over a point in Youngstown and Bethlehem.

Chrysler was up a point and General Motors almost as much. Douglas gained over a point in a higher market for aviation.

Utilities were quiet. Elsewhere gains predominated.
